Genderflux

VIEW SOURCE

Genderflux is a term for those whose gender fluctuates in intensity. It can be thought of as a form of genderfluid where agender is the base. Genderflux people can fluctuate from feeling 0% gendered (agender), to being 100% a given gender. In between those extremes include being slightly a given gender, (libragender), to being partially a given gender, (demigender) to being mostly, but not entirely a given gender, (paragender). For example, a girlflux individual can fluctuate from agender, to librafeminine, to demigirl, to paragirl, to fully girl.

Although genderfluid people may sometimes be agender, they are not necessarily genderflux. Genderflux people generally do not change gender, only the intensity of their gender. For example, a boyflux person may only experience agender, boy, demiboy, and other varying levels boy. Someone who is solely boyflux will never experience genders that are not agender, boy, or partially boy. A genderfluid person may experience agender, boy, girl, and any other genders. Although genderflux is a specific type of genderfluidity the terms genderfluid and genderflux should not be used interchangeably.

If someone has multiple genders that fluctuate in intensity, they could identify as multflux and/or multigender. If only part of one's gender is fluctuating, with the other part being static, they may identify as demiflux. Someone whose gender is fluid and fluctuating at the same time may identify as fluidflux. If only one part of one's gender is fluidflux, with the other part being static, they may identify as demiflux.

Genderflux people may also identify as non-binary, genderqueer, and/or transgender. The suffix -flux can be applied to any gender to indicate that the intensity of that gender fluctuates.

Common genderflux identities

- 1. Boyflux
- 2. Girlflux
- 3. Enbyflux

History

The term genderflux was coined by Tumblr user Deergoths in 2014. They describe it as "Genderflux means that your internal sense of how gendered you are varies over time. One day, you might feel really gendered, and the next day, you might have a very weak feeling of gender, or not feel like any gender at all. Whereas genderfluidity is a shift between different genders, genderflux is more like varying intensity."

Flag

The genderflux flag has six stripes, with dark pink for women, light pink for demigirls, grey for agender, light blue for demiboys, dark blue for men, and yellow for non-binary genders.

The second and third genderflux flags were designed by Pride-Flags on DeviantArt on August 14, 2015.

Another genderflux flag was coined by Cryptocrew at Hayden000s request on January 15th of 2021 and was first published on a post two days later. Black is for the anonbinary spectrum, grey is for the agender spectrum, purple is for the non-binary spectrum, blue is for the spectrum of masculine genders, yellow is for the xenic spectrum, and red is for the spectrum of feminine genders. The percentage is for the fluctuation between genders.

I think I am genderflux as sometimes I feel very agender and sometimes I feel very strongly masc/fem, but that is the problem- I don't fit into either boyflux or girlflux as it varies. can someone help me out???

 Swiss the cheese god • 3d

Could you explain a bit more?

Hello! I was wondering if anyone could help me out with my gender! Basically I feel like a girl most of the time but I also don't want to be identified as a girl. I also sometimes don't want a gender. But I also slightly want to be a man but I also want to still have b00bs. It's just so confusing-

 Andyhh1001 • 8/17/2021

I think you might be the Genderfluid

I don't know if I'm genderflux but it suits me I think- though I just feel like an empty sense as if I mostly don't have a gender but that intensity changes as well as my gender changing. I identify as genderfluid at the moment and am fluid between any gender but normally not feminine ones. It changes frequently but there's always just something feeling like it's just not there and just empty. I was told this might be what I am when I asked for help and Im now wondering if I count as genderflux- is it okay?

 MossTheBoss2021 • 8/4/2021

Im not sure if this would be you but you can identify as both genderfluid and genderflux its called fluidflux and you might want to check it out

Can u be genderflux and genderfluid at the same time?

 GhostlyFae • 7/4/2021

Yes, it's known as genderfluid/flux (also called flux for short) ^-^

I've been trying to figure out my gender for a while now, and kinda understand what i feel! the only thing is that i don't know what label to use :(so at the moment i feel like all genders but non binary and female are the highest (sorry if that's confusing) but i know in a month or two i'll feel different (happens all the time kind of a pattern now!) i also don't feel 100% male or 100% female, if i'm for feminine i would be a demi-girl, not female. same with male and stuff :/ i've tried looking into trigender and pangender but kinda feel uncomfortable using those terms. if anyone could help that'll mean a lot!! thanks <3

The Genderfluid Fragment Gender System sounds like it might be helpful for you. From your description I'd say check out Genderflorean (fluid between all genders except binary man/woman), Genderfruct (masc, femme, nonbinary), Genderfrict (masc, fem, unaligned, with focus on fem), Genderfroct (masc, fem, unaligned, focus on unaligned)

For the time aspect I don't know the exact one, but there are a variety of terms relating to changes over time. Temporalgender(Category) is a category of genders that change based on time. While it's not on the wiki, Horrager (https://archive.is/r65Jt#selection-214.5-269.1) refers to changes on a predictable schedule. While I don't generally recommend the site here, since it's often meanspirited about MOGAI, their Aerogender category page has some genders I couldn't find on this wiki <http://mogaipedia.wikidot.com/wiki:pages-tagged-with-aerogender/>

There's boyflux and girlflux but is there a term that fits non-binary, or is that considered genderflux itself?

 BlueButterfly16 • 6/27/2021

That would be Enbyflux

Could I use genderfluid as an umbrella term for boyflux?

 Auri's pringles • 6/22/2021

Of course!!! Genderfluid can be used as an umbrella term for every fluid genders

Can someone identify as gender flux and non binary.?

 Norarreeeeeeeeeeee • 6/14/2021

Yes! You can identify as a combo of almost anything to be honest.

 Inthecupboard • 7/19/2021

Nonbinary is an umbrella term, with most genders going under it (besides the original binary ones). Genderflux is under nonbinary, so yes.

I've been identifying as this for a while since i fluctuate between Female, Male, and Neutrois but I just read the definition again and im confused can i still identify as this?

 MirrorTail755 • 6/16/2021

If you feel your gender changes between genders, then a more fitting label might be genderfluid. If you feel it both changes and fluctuates in intensity, you may find fluidflux fits, as fluidflux is essentially a combination of genderfluid and genderflux. If you feel comfortable with this label and feel it fits, you can still use it if you want though :)

Um so my gender can go from almost 100% female to agender/nonbinary to demi-ish boy. please give me label suggestions that I can look into so I can see what suits me well.

 Seafruit • 6/3/2021

This would work but genderfluid is also an option! it used to be genderfluid but it was never female/demi girl one thing interests me.

for a long time I have been interested in this gender identity and I have a question.

does this identity need to be experienced only by experiencing agender, libragender, demigender, paragender and 100% given gender or can it be experienced in such a way as, for example:

In the morning I feel 60% girl and 40% non-binary, in the afternoon I feel 70% a woman, 30% a non-binary person, and in the evening 90% a woman and 10% a non-binary person?

 TheOriginalShiftyandLifty • 5/27/2021

You could be girlflux? You can use any label you feel comfortable with! I hope this helped.

 Tasmieszna • 5/27/2021

@TheOriginalShiftyandLifty well actually im a girl. it was just example and so this identity doesnt need to be experienced only by experiencing agender, libragender, demigender, paragender and 100% given gender, right? it can be experienced in such a way right?

Does genderflux must fluctuate from 0% a given gender to 100% a given gender or this must fluctuate in a different way?

 Chez Bacon • 5/7/2021

It's like, 12% to 31% not 0% to 100%.

 Tasmieszna • 5/9/2021

@Chez Bacon but this can fluctuate in a different way? eg. in the morning I feel 60% girl and 40% non-binary, in the afternoon I feel 70% a woman, 30% a non-binary person, and in the evening 90% a woman and 10% a non-binary person

Can I be demigirlby ,demiboy , nanogirl and genderflux? because I fell like 10% female ,10% male and 70% non binary and I feel like Im nanogirl.

Reign of the breadsticcs • 3/31/2021

well that depends, do you feel like you're always 10% female, 10% male, and 70% non-binary? because if so then that would mean your gender wouldn't fluctuate and you wouldn't be genderflux, but if your genders do fluctuate then absolutely! more specifically, I would check out both multflux and fluidflux :) if your genders aren't fluctuating, I recommend checking out oxigender :)

As Long as I'm here, You're Invincible • 3/31/2021

Can I be genderfluid AND genderflux? I feel like my gender changes sometimes in that sometimes i feel like a demiboy other times I feel like a man, and other times I feel agender. Could genderflux describe that?

Yeah you can be fluid and flux. Some use Fluidflux or similar terms some only use one half of it. Like I'm technically fluidflux but I just say I'm genderfluid. It's all up to what feels right for you.

Genderless Shenanigans • 3/17/2021

I think genderfluid would be a bit more accurate, but you may also want to look into fluidflux/flux! /g
